

Bring the world into your classroom with one of DEC(SY)'s Global Collections.

Are you a teacher planning a topic on one of these countries? See how we could help you...

The Global Collections bring countries to life by giving children the chance to handle real objects, see images and film clips, and engage in meaningful activities to challenge their perceptions about different cultures.

Each Collection contains a selection of objects carefully chosen to represent contemporary life in the country.

In addition there is a British bag with objects representing British culture. The aim of this is to get across how difficult it is to represent a whole country with just a few objects.

Each Global Collection includes a comprehensive resource folder with lots of information about the country and ready-to-use lesson plans & activities.

The activities will encourage children to learn more about other countries, how our lives are connected with those of people around the world and the imperative of poverty reduction. Most activities are aimed at KS2 but can easily be adapted.

Activities - the British Bag

2. What's in the bag?

NATIONAL CURRICULUM LINKS:

- Historical, geographical and social understanding
- Essential knowledge 1c & 1d
- Understanding English, communication and languages
- Key Stage: 2b & 2c

Learning Objective:

To think critically about how the objects represent Britain and how they relate to our personal views of Britain.

Bring in the red British Bag. Tell children that this is a collection of objects that some people think represent Britain. What do the children think about these objects? Are there any that they don't agree with and would take out? Why? How are they different to the objects that the class selected?

Is this what it means to be British? Is there anything missing? Maybe they are things that are harder to put in a suitcase like feelings or smells or behaviours – for example queuing or talking about the weather. How might you represent these?

The British bag contains a selection of objects to represent Britain.

The website Who Do We Think We Are? (www.whodowe.org.uk) has lots of information about Britishness including an interactive activity to build your own "Britishness box": www.whodowe.org.uk/images/britishness_box/

When asked to think of things that represent Britain, many people said iconic buildings in London such as Tower Bridge.

Each resource folder also includes a CD of images of the country.

These pictures are from the Life in Malawi Collection.
